

Arrington is an unincorporated city in Williamson County with beautiful rolling hills and budding luxury home communities. Residents of Arrington get to enjoy a quiet life and are able to take advantage of all the best nature has to offer.

The Neighborhood

Located on the eastern side of Williamson County, Arrington is a fast-growing community with a lot to offer. Always a beautiful community, Arrington really began to shine with the opening of Arrington Vineyards, owned by country music star Kix Brooks. The sprawling vineyard brought new visitors who were unsurprisingly attracted to the area's beautiful scenery and quiet lifestyle.

The Market

Being located in Williamson County's coveted rural outskirts, Arrington homes come with a higher price than surrounding counties, but the beautiful homes on rolling farmland make up for the price tag. Newer neighborhoods with smaller lots are also popping up, but still offer luxury living and sought-after amenities.

The Lifestyle

Away from it all but close to Franklin and Nolensville, Arrington offers a quintessential lifestyle for people seeking a quiet life, but not lacking convenience. In addition to Arrington Vineyards, the area also hosts the annual Renaissance Festival, one of Middle Tennessee's largest and most anticipated annual events. Whether you're seeking traditional suburban life or have dreams of a farmhouse on a large piece of land, Arrington provides a beautiful landscape for your single-family home wish-list.